

Gregory D. Stevens, PhD, MHS

Gregory D. Stevens, PhD, MHS is a health policy researcher, writer, teacher and advocate. He is an Associate Professor of Family Medicine and Preventive Medicine at the Keck School of Medicine of the University of Southern California. He received both his masters and PhD from the Johns Hopkins University Bloomberg School of Public Health with a focus on health care policy. He has focused his research on primary health care, children's health, health disparities and vulnerable populations. He is an author of the book Vulnerable Populations in the United States and is Associate Editor of The Medical Care Blog (the official blog of the peer-reviewed journal Medical Care).